POETRY CORNER

I THINK

—that, peradventure, long ago
and far away, before these eyes grew clear in birth,
I wandered, dimly reaching
for a star,
and found it . . .
It is lovely . . .
It is Earth.

LAMP AT MY BACK

"The world is dark," I said.
I meant, but did not know,
The world I saw was dark
And I had made it so.

Thick shadow was the wall
In giant shape of me . . .
I stood full-framed in light
And would not turn to see.

"DIGNITY IS DEMANDED EVEN FOR THE DEAD"

Dignity is the dead.
Now, if never before,
he lies in a kind of nobility.
The face out of which came
ribald jokes
and looks and fakes
is here in truth
and the joke is on us.
He is dead serious,
but not grim.
Anything small and shabby
is over for him.

Selections from High Hearth, a book of poetry by Dorothy Burnham Eaton '20. Published by The Golden Quill Press, Francetown, New Hampshire, 1979.

Lasell Reunion Song

Here we are, gathered for Reunion
And our hearts are filled with loyalty, Lasell.
Through the years our pathways have been severed
But our love for you has never dimmed.

You who have taught us the very best we know,
Clasped us and loved us in days long ago,
May all your future prove fair as it seems—
Luck and God bless you, Lasell, we wish you well.

Set to music for the reunion gatherings of the Class of 1925 by Barbara CUSHING Lund '25, who wrote the first stanza and who selected the second stanza from a poem written by the late Martha HASKELL Clark '05.

Carolyn E. Chapman
1913-1980

Carolyn Chapman joined the Lasell faculty as an instructor in Secretarial Science in September of 1943 after nine years of teaching at Stoneleigh Junior College in Rye, New Hampshire. In the months that followed, students and faculty alike were impressed by her integrity and by the high personal and professional standards which she set both for herself and for others.

In those days, academic departments were not formally structured, but Miss Chapman's qualities of leadership soon established her as the person to whom everyone looked for direction. It was inevitable, therefore, that when President Raymond Wass decided that a more formal type of departmental organization was in order, she was appointed Chairman of the Department of Secretarial Science, a position she held until her retirement in 1977.

Never did she allow herself to be any less than her best and thereby inspired others to try to attain the same high standards. As a teacher, she was an expert in her field, by her example instilling in her students a desire to perform at their highest level of achievement. As a friend, she was unshakeable in her loyalties, honest, kind and compassionate.

Always she gave of herself. She spent countless hours outside the classroom counseling her students and served as a contributing member of some of the most prestigious committees of the College. In particular, she developed the Medical Secretarial Program to the point that Lasell graduates from that Curriculum were in tremendous demand by employers throughout the area.

The quiet dignity that characterized her entire life was never more evident than during the last few years when she waged a courageous and uncomplaining battle against the debilitating effects of emphysema. The plaque that bears her name in Wolfe Hall is a tangible reminder of the years she spent at Lasell, but even more durable and of greater significance is the place that she holds in the hearts of generations of students and those of us who were privileged to have been her colleagues.

SPECIAL CLASS NOTES ISSUE
Summer-Fall 1980

Dear Lasell,
Life has been so hectic these past few years that I've found it hard to keep in touch with my classmates, though I think of them often — and fondly. Please pass the word along that I'm now living in Madison, Wisconsin.
